For Nikki Harper, realtor to the stars and daughter of 1950s screen goddess Victoria Bordeaux, Hollywood is home—an albeit dysfunctional home populated by a cast of crazies. Behind the gates of Emerald City, one of D.C.'s deadliest projects, is a million dollar empire guarded by the Gatekeepers—four fearless females who are more than just pretty faces. Nobody makes a move without them knowing it—including the hustlers who put them on the throne.

Under the pit bull-like watch of Mercedes, Yvette, Kenyetta, and Carissa, the money and the drugs are flowing into Emerald City. They've got heat packed in their designer purses, and as long as they're scorchin' the sheets with the hustlers they love, everything's cool. But when Yvette's man, Thick, goes on a power trip and brings an outside chick into the picture, the security of the operation is jeopardized and emotions run wild—on both sides. Once they shared their hearts, their beds, and their kingdom. But feelings are interfering with business. Now it's war. Who will win? The men who taught the Gatekeepers the rules of the game—or the women who are about to change them...

Lawmen don't last long in the town of Doubtful, Wyoming Territory. The last one quit, another ended up in a hangman's noose, and one more was backshot by the hired guns at the Circle L Ranch.

But the town of Doubtful has never seen the likes of the man who's known only as Cotton, who aims to take the badge for $125 a month, save himself a nice chunk of money over the next year, and be on his way. At least, that's his plan.

Problem is, Cotton has just stuck his nose in the biggest hornet's nest in the territory. Some of the new homesteaders are stringing wire, and the three large spreads in the area don't like it much. Before Cotton can say "range war!" a passel of hardcases are filling the air with gun-smoke and hot lead.

But Cotton won't be scared off. He'll see to it that law and order come to Doubtful—because Cotton isn't afraid of dying. And he's not afraid of killing.
